Losses in Material Mounting in One of War's Greatest Battles

By LYNN HEINERLING
LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—The Russian armies of the center bloodily beat off savage German attacks all along the Orel and Kursk fronts yesterday, held their own in the Belgorod sector to the south, and destroyed 193 Nazi tanks and ninety-four planes in the great battle of attrition, the Soviet command announced early today.

The German drive, in two battle areas specifically mentioned, were nearly 5,000 for the day. Moscow declared in the regular midnight communique recorded here by the Soviet Monitor, thus bringing to about 40,000 the total German casualties for five days of violent action.

German losses in material also were rising to tremendous proportions. Yesterday's destruction raised to 2,036 the number of enemy tanks thus far listed as knocked out, and to 904 the number of Nazi planes smashed since the beginning of the offensive.

Fall in Orel-Kursk Area
In the Orel-Kursk sector, said the bulletin, the Nazis after four days of heavy losses had "gained no success" and had been forced to shift the weight of attack to other areas, reinforcing their "battered troops" by nine infantry divisions and one tank division.

A score or more of German attacks were beaten off—thirteen of them in a single area of action—and fighting at times was hand-to-hand.

Fifteen hundred Nazis were wiped out in these actions, said the Soviet command, as was most of a German battalion in a nearby action.

About Belgorod—scene of four previous German penetrations against which the Russians battered all day—no further Nazi progress was reported, although it was declared the invaders were "bringing into battle all their reserves, striving at any cost to achieve success."

2,000 Germans Killed
In the Belgorod sector, 2,000 Germans were killed during the day; in a nearby action 1,000 more fell. But it was in the Kursk-Orel sector where the supreme Nazi efforts were being made.

Melvyn Douglas Made a Captain

DALLAS, Tex., July 9. (AP)—Actor Melvyn Douglas, a private first class when he visited Dallas ten days ago on detached service, returned as a captain this week end to continue a special assignment.

He was called back to Camp Wallace, his post, to receive the captain's commission.

Douglas's assignment is to stimulate the sale of war bonds among the civilian personnel of military installations.

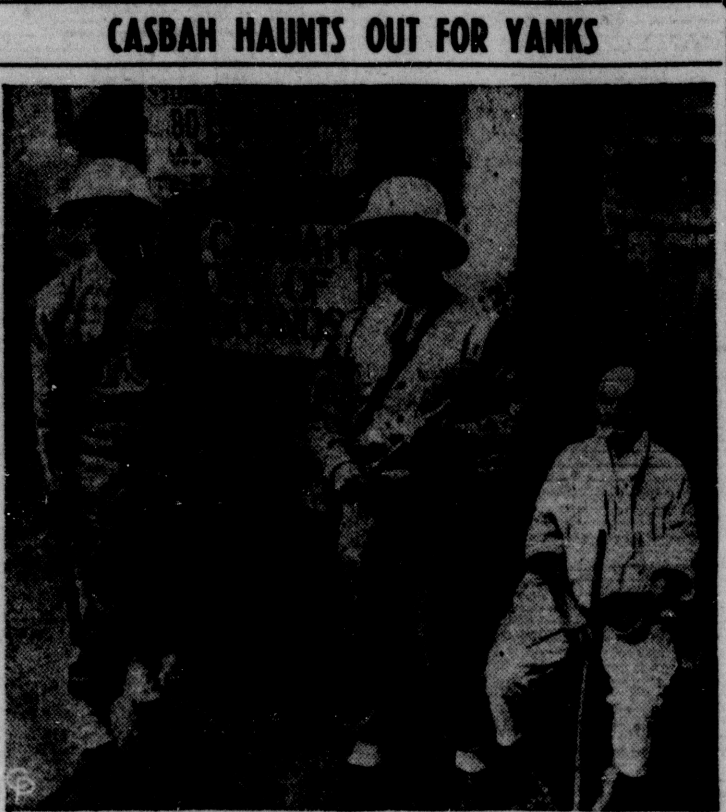

He is in the classification division of the anti-aircraft replacement training center and has taken both specialized and basic training.

Clash between Negro and White Foreman Halts Steel Production

CHICAGO, July 9.—(AP)—A work stoppage at the American Steel Foundries' cast armor plant in East Chicago, Ind., developed today, company and police officials said, after an altercation in which a Negro workman struck a white foreman.

The plant, whose war work was halted, employs 53 per cent negroes.

Albert Walcher, operating vice president, said that after the Negro, almost en masse, quit work they "virtually took possession of

GERMANS BOMB MOVIE THEATER IN ENGLAND; 12 CHILDREN DIE

Casualties May Be Much Higher; Junkers Plane Attacked from Low Altitude, London Says

LONDON, July 9. (AP)—German raiders planted a bomb today on a southeastern English town movie theater where hundreds of children were watching a cowboy film. Early reports said at least twelve were killed, but casualties were expected to be higher.

The bomb crashed through the roof, collapsing the building. Rescue squads and civilians searched throughout the night by candlelight.

A woman living opposite the theater said she saw a Junkers bomber skimming the rooftops.

Heard Children Crying
"A second later there was a terrific explosion," she added. "Then I heard children crying. They were trapped in the debris. Ten minutes later all was silent except for the noise of the rescue workers."

Other persons were injured and killed in adjacent shops.

One of those who escaped was John Parsons, 13, who went to the movie right from school. He was sitting in the front row.

"The very first thing I knew was a sort of crackling which ran along the ceiling of the cinema," he said. "The exit lights and the film went out at the same moment and the place was in complete darkness."

"Bits of debris started flying about. I got on the floor in front of a row of seats and crawled along in front of them, then jumped and ran to an exit."

Second Bomb Dropped
"Just as I was going up the steps there was an explosion. It was a second bomb. I did not hear the first bomb explode and I lay down on the steps with other people coming out. Then I felt a pain in my face and found I had been cut. When I came out there was a soldier at the top of the steps. I heard machine gun fire and stepped inside again. When I came out I was taken to a clinic."

Body of Soldier Found in Lake

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 9. (AP)—The body of Private Joe Lee, 22, of Sweetwater, Tex., was found in a lake near a military camp here early yesterday morning, military authorities said today.

Bombers Join Artillery and U. S. Destroyers

Heavy Attacks Soften Enemy for Advance of Infantry

Land Patrols Contact Japs Filtering through Jungle

By MURLIN SPENCER
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Saturday, July 10. (AP)—Over 100 American bombers teamed with destroyers and artillery Friday in giving the Japanese air base of Munda and its perimeter of defenses on New Georgia island a three-way pounding.

The heavy attacks were intended to soften up that key base in the Central Solomons for our ground forces which already have landed on New Georgia on two sides and now are consolidating positions prior to applying a pincer.

Avenger torpedo bombers and Dauntless divebombers in great force loosed over seventy tons of bombs ranging up to 2,000 pounders on Japanese bivouacs and supply dumps.

The destroyers maneuvered in treacherous waters just off Munda base before dawn yesterday, subjecting the Japanese to an intensive shelling of the kind the enemy dislikes the most.

Patrols Contact Japs
On the ground our patrols filtering through the jungle frequently contacted the Japanese on the Munda side of the island and to the north near Rice Anchorage where one of our two landings was made.

Route of forty-five zeros seeking to raid our positions below Munda on Rendova island, Allied aerial pounding of bases above Munda which might supply it air support, and continuous bombing of Japanese jungle positions before Salamaua, New Guinea, were other highlights of today's reports from the far-ranging battlefronts.

The softening up process against the Munda area started shortly after dawn yesterday. Flight after flight of Avengers and Divebombers swept over green jungle positions to drop all types of bombs.

Heaviest Bombing of Munda
General MacArthur's spokesmen termed it the heaviest bombing made thus far against Munda—a base which had been pounded so repeatedly from the air that it has been of little service to the enemy in recent weeks.

The raiders encountered ack ack from the anti-aircraft artillery positions they pounded but received protection from any possible Japanese interception by accompanying Wildcat fighters. No Japanese plane showed up.

The artillery shelling came from Rendova island which is about five miles across water from Munda. The shells were aimed at anti-aircraft positions.

Meanwhile, other divebombers roared down on targets at Balroko and Enogai in the north of Munda.

United States To Equip Large Force of French

Giraud Reveals Plans To Put 300,000 Men in Action

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud disclosed today that the United States will equip a French North African army of 300,000 men—and he promised solemnly that France will fight on until Japan, as well as Germany and Italy, are beaten.

The tall, slender commander of the French forces of liberation told a press conference that President Roosevelt had promised modern arms so that the number of French troops could be increased from 75,000 to 300,000, including the followers of General Charles De Gaulle.

Cannot Recognize Committee
Mr. Roosevelt, at his press-radio conference a bit earlier, had indicated that so long as the French people are under German domination, the United States cannot recognize the French Committee of National Liberation nor any other organization as the governing power of France.

General Giraud and Gen. Charles De Gaulle are joint chairmen of the committee at Algiers.

Giraud avoided discussion of his relations with De Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French faction, and the political situation among the French.

Before he appeared at noon, the 200 correspondents who filled Secretary Stimson's conference room at the War department were advised (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

OPA Says Public Does Not Understand Damage Suits To End Price Increases

BALTIMORE, July 9. (AP)—Announcing only one treble-damage suit had been filed outside of Baltimore under provisions of the emergency price control act, Office of Price Administration officials said today Marylanders have failed to take advantage of their power to police price ceilings.

Reuben Shilling, OPA enforcement attorney, said it was obvious that consumers generally were unaware of their rights under the act. State OPA Rent Director Lucien C. D. Gaudreau said only one rent case had been filed outside the city, although two thirds of the thirty-two cases filed in people's court in Baltimore concerned rent.

The remaining ten or eleven cases filed in Baltimore represented drug-store or grocery violations, Shilling added.

Son-in-Law Held As Murderer of Sir Harry Oakes

Alfred De Marigny Charged with Slaying Multi-Millionaire

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 9. (AP)—Alfred De Marigny was booked at the police station here tonight on a charge of killing his father-in-law, the multi-millionaire British Baronet Sir Harry Oakes.

He was arrested at 6 p. m. by Lieut. Col. R. A. Lindop and Maj. Embert Pemberton of the Nassau constabulary.

Capt. E. W. Melchen of the Miami police department, summoned by airplane to aid in the investigation after Sir Harry's body was found on a bed which had been set afire Thursday morning, said the arrest and charge were based on "hair analysis, fingerprints and interrogation."

Find Four Head Wounds
Attorney General Eric Hallinan reported that Sir Harry had been bludgeoned to death. There were four severe head wounds, he said, as well as burns on the body.

Others believed an electric fan had blown out the flames before they had destroyed the bed.

The charge against De Marigny came as a sensational climax to the death of Sir Harry, one of the world's richest men with a fortune unofficially estimated to be as great as $200,000,000.

Until the announcement came, details of the slaying had been withheld, and the case had become a mystery which puzzled outsiders.

Denies Implication

ROOSEVELT BARS INFORMATION TO HOUSE FCC INVESTIGATORS

Refuses To Permit War and Navy Departments and Budget Bureau Officials To Testify at Inquiry

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—The War and Navy departments and the Budget bureau, acting on presidential orders, refused today to give data to a House committee investigating the Federal Communications commission, and its chairman protested the action as interfering with Congress.

Documents and testimony by officers had been asked by the special committee headed by Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) in an effort to support charges that the FCC has interfered with military intelligence. Both were refused on the grounds this would not be in the public interest. Cox retorted in a statement:

"Where rests the power to determine what the public interest is? Is it a power that belongs to the government, or only to one branch of the government? Is Congress to be rendered powerless to determine for itself what is or what is not in the public interest?"

Will Maintain Dignity
The Georgian, who has differed with the administration in the past on domestic issues and long has been feuding with Chairman James L. Fly of the FCC, said his committee, while not pressing the matter now, "means to maintain and defend" the dignity of Congress.

"If it is possible and appropriate for the chief executive thus to limit the investigations of a select (special) committee of the Congress, and to impede its work on the ground of his determination of the public interest," Cox said, "then it would follow logically that he or some other chief executive could so interfere with the functions of a standing committee of either house."

No Military Information
The chairman emphasized that the committee "would not have accepted for public exposure any secret military information."

James V. Forrestal, undersecretary of the navy, wrote the committee:

The president of the United States authorized me to inform the committee that he, the president, refuses to allow the documents described in your letter to be delivered to the committee, as such delivery would be incompatible with the public interest.

Five Firemen Die in Crash Of Building

Rescue Crews Risk Death in Efforts To Save Trapped Men

CHICAGO, July 9. (AP)—Grim rescue crews, spurred the danger of weakened walls and spurred by agonized pleas for help, dug the bodies of the living and the dead from the wreckage of a building today in the aftermath of a tragic accident that cost the lives of seven firemen.

Five of the victims perished in tons of rubble after the roof and floors of the structure collapsed. Four others were extricated alive after being trapped as long as eleven hours, but two of them died later. In addition, four other men were injured seriously enough to be taken to hospitals.

The tragedy was the worst in Chicago, from a standpoint of department casualties, in nineteen years.

The fire fighters turned out at 2 a. m. to combat a blaze in a four-story factory-garage building. About twenty of them were inside—most of them on the stairs between the third and fourth floors—when the roof fell. Then the topmost fourth of the front wall tipped inward. Next, the stairways bumped (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

RAF Batters Cologne with Tons Of Bombs; Germans Set Up Wall

By BLAKE SULLIVAN
LONDON, July 9. (AP)—The RAF cascaded more than 1,000 tons of bombs on battered Cologne last night, ending the temporary relief which storms had given Germany this week from the wholesale Allied air raids.

The blasting of the Rhineland industrial center was smaller in scale than the last two British attacks on that city June 28 and July 3, but still constituted a heavy assault.

The new aerial battle mounted today as the Germans gave London its first air raid alarm since June 27. Ten Nazi aircraft approached the capital, dropping bombs in the greater London area, while others caused damage and casualties at scattered points in Southeast England.

War Department Announces Invasion under Eisenhower

Brief Communique Tells of Assault upon Important Island

NEW YORK, July 10. (Saturday) (AP)—"The invasion of Europe has begun," Robert Bennett, of the British Broadcasting Corporation, asserted today in a broadcast from Allied headquarters in Algiers. The broadcast was recorded by station WOR in New York.

"Fighting is going on now. The most difficult military operation of this war has begun."

WASHINGTON, July 10. (Saturday)—(AP)—The invasion of Sicily by English, American and Canadian forces under the command of General Dwight D. Eisenhower was announced early today by the War department.

A brief communique from advance headquarters said the landings were preceded by air attack while naval forces escorted the ground troops and bombarded the coast defenses during the landing operation.

The text of the announcement:

"Anglo-American-Canadian forces, under command of General Eisenhower, began landing operations in Sicily early this morning (July 10, North African time). Landings were preceded by an air attack. Naval forces escorted the assault forces and bombarded the coast defenses during the assault."

There was no additional information concerning the scale of the landing assault on Sicily, which is separated from Italy by only a narrow strait.

The island has been under steady bombardment by the Northwest African Air Force since the Axis forces in Tunisia collapsed and surrendered in May.

The communique supplied the first information that Canadian troops had joined the British and American forces under Eisenhower in North Africa.

Eight Men Killed In Plane Crash

DAYTON, O., July 9. (AP)—Eight crew members were killed and two civilians parachuted to safety today as two army planes collided at low altitude over Wright field.

The two planes, a four-engined transport and a two-engined cargo carrier, carried crews of five men each. The transport crashed just outside Wright field, on government property, while the cargo plane fell on the flying field after the collision.

Wright field officials declined to give any details of how the collision occurred, other than the planes were on routine flights and crashed at "low altitude."

Cruiser Helena Went Down with All Guns Firing

American Warship Known To Have Sunk Several Enemy Ships

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, July 10.—(Saturday) (AP)—Another name—that of the fighting cruiser Helena—can be added to the list of warships famous in American history.

The dying moments of the ship that went down with guns still firing on the enemy were the most dramatic of the decisive American naval victory over the Japanese in the pre-dawn darkness of July 6 in Kula gulf—a victory that played an important part in the apparently early doom of the important enemy air base at Munda on New Georgia island.

That victory prevented large scale reinforcements from reaching the Japanese, now menaced at Munda on two sides by American invaders. At one point three United States force were only three miles away and were slowly advancing through the jungle, soaked for four days by torrential rains.

(J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press correspondent in the South Pacific, reported that the Helena sank at least two cruisers and two destroyers before it was sunk. Lodge's report indicated that the Helena sank one of the destroyers after its own bow had been blown off.)

Japs Lose Heavily
Nine to eleven Japanese warships were sent to the bottom in the battle in the narrow waters between the north end of New Georgia and Kolombangara island. The Helena was the only American ship lost in the battle and more than 600 of her crew were rescued.

The Kula victory may prove a decisive factor in the American bid for control of the Central Solomons. While the Japanese force was completely broken, some ships may have succeeded in landing reinforcements at Vila on Kolombangara island. Large scale reinforcements were definitely prevented.

Vila underwent a pounding by bombers Thursday. Twenty-one tons of high explosives were dropped on the big enemy supply depot. Further north Allied planes raided the Kahili airfield on Bougainville island in an effort to prevent Japanese aerial support for their defenders at Munda.

Salamaua Bombed
Other Allied air raids hit the Japanese 700 miles to the southeast at their base of Salamaua on Northeastern New Guinea, where ground patrols continued pressure on the enemy between Muba and Salamaua, twelve miles apart.

In the meantime Japanese air activity was the lightest since the start of the new American offensive on June 30. Enemy pilots dropped two bombs, with only slight damage, on Americans at Rendova island who have been shelling the nearby Munda airbase. They also made an unsuccessful raid on an emergency landing field ninety miles from Salamaua in the jungles.

announcement to the people of France telling them the invasion of the island off the toe of the Italian boot was "the first stage in the liberation of the European continent," but warning them not to expose themselves to reprisals by premature action based on any assumption that an invasion of France was imminent.

The translation of this broadcast from North Africa, supplied by the War department, follows:

"Announcement to Frenchmen of France:
Will keep French informed.
"Anglo-American-Canadian armed forces have today launched an offensive against Sicily. It is the first stage in the liberation of the European continent. There will be others.

"I call on the French people to remain calm, not to allow themselves to be deceived by the false rumors which the enemy might circulate. The Allied radio will keep you informed on military developments. I count on your sang-froid and on your sense of discipline. Do not be rash, for the enemy is watching. Keep on listening and never heed rumors. Verify carefully the news you receive.

"By remaining calm and by not exposing yourselves to reprisals through premature action, you will be helping us effectively. When the hour of action strikes, we will let you know. Till then, help us by following our instructions. That is to say: Keep calm, conserve your strength. We repeat: When the hour of action strikes, we will let you know."

Sardinia Next
This jump-off to the big Italian island went a long way toward cleaning up the Mediterranean. With Africa in the hands of the Allies, Sicily undergoing man-to-man attack, and Sardinia so close it could scarcely escape a blow soon, a large area of the "soft underbelly" of Axis held Europe was under direct fire.

Nevertheless, the possibility if not probability of spirited resistance by Sicily's defenders existed.
German-Italian forces had been reinforced in Southern Italy and its outposts recently, with an anti-invasion army of perhaps as high as 300,000 highly trained men poised for the test.

Check Motorists To Force Purchase Of Use Tax Stamps

BALTIMORE, July 9. (AP)—The checking of automobiles being operated without the new $5 auto use tax stamp was announced today by the collector of internal revenue.

A. Parks Raisin, acting collector for the Baltimore office, said deputies of his office had been assigned to spot motorists who have failed to obtain and display the federal tax stamp, which is now past due.

The agents, he said, would "call attention" of the motorists to their violation.
He also indicated it might be "a little early" to put on a strict drive for enforcement of the regulation.

Raisin said that persons who fail to obey the regulation are guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of $25 and costs.

U-Boats Scarce In Ship Routes, Reports Assert

Losses in June Lowest in 19 Months, Statement Reveals

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—In the war's most optimistic report on the battle against U-boats, the British and American governments jointly announced tonight that Allied ships losses in June were the lowest in nineteen months and U-boats so scarce on convoy routes that the hunt for them was turned to Axis home waters.

"Sinkings of Axis submarines were substantial and satisfactory," it was added.
Guardedly, the announcement refrained from saying, even by implication, that the anti-submarine war is won, but after reciting the June record it succinctly observed that "anti-submarine vessels and aircraft are coming into service in considerable numbers."

Coming on top of a highly successful record of anti-submarine operations in May, tonight's announcement made it clear in any event that the war against U-boats is going so well that the Allies can substantially increase the flow of weapons from the North American continent to the invasion armies poised about Hitler's European fortress.

In a recent speech to Parliament, Prime Minister Churchill, discussing the May record, said "more than thirty U-boats were certainly destroyed" in that month, and in the last half of May "scarcely a single merchant ship" was sunk in the North Atlantic.

Tonight's announcement said the heavy May toll of U-boats showed its effect in June when main transatlantic convoys were "practically unmolested" and fewer targets were offered to the Allied ships and aircraft searching for the Axis submarines.

The RAF's insistence in returning repeatedly to bomb-racked Cologne, which has now been blasted 119 times, was taken here as a sign of British determination to keep that city on the industrial defensive, to disrupt re-building there and break its morale.

Informed sources said British now had sufficient aircraft to carry out this technique, whereas last year she was not in a position to follow up the initial success gained in the first 1,000-bomber attack on Cologne May 30, 1942.

British aerial scouting showed that, by the end of 1942, much of the damage caused by the first mass raid had been repaired. An important blast furnace works, for example, had been severely damaged, it was disclosed, but subsequently rebuilt.

The Omyw-Mahlwerk chemical plant of Cologne had been not only repaired, but even enlarged, aerial photographs showed, while most of the damaged public buildings had been restored or were undergoing reconstruction.

This intensive re-building, an informed source said, indicated the Germans could not afford to abandon the Rhine-Ruhr area, and accounted for the RAF's repeated return to such targets.

1943 Peach Yield Off 35 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—A 1943 peach yield, thirty-five per cent below last year's production was forecast today.

The Agriculture department said production is expected to total 43,042,000 bushels this year. In the ten early southern states the crop is estimated at only 5,581,000 bushels, compared with 19,591,000 bushels produced in 1942.

The New England and New York crop was described as "almost a complete failure," with the north-west corner of Niagara county, N. Y., as the only important area in that state expected to produce a fair crop.

Conditions in other large peach production areas as described by the department:

Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia—extremely light production expected; Maryland—seventy-five per cent of average crop forecast.

Easing of Beef Shortage Predicted
BALTIMORE, July 9. (AP)—An easing of the beef shortage by the second week of August, when West Virginia grass cattle start moving to market, was predicted today by Baltimore meat packers and livestock dealers.

They report that the season for grass cattle in West Virginia is opening later than usual, as grasslands in that section are in unusually good condition. This encourages cattlemen to hold on to and fatten livestock which normally would now be on its way to market, they said.

Fork, dealers said, is more plentiful now than has been for more than a year, and lamb continues more plentiful than beef in spite of a shortage of choice cuts.

15,000 Cannery Workers Needed in Maryland
BALTIMORE, July 9. (AP)—Lawrence B. Fenneman, director of the state War Man Power Commission, announced today that 15,000 cannery workers still were needed in Maryland and that the WMC's recruitment campaign would be intensified next week.

Employers in less essential industries and firms have been requested to canvass their personnel for as many volunteer workers as possible for food processing jobs, Fenneman said.

The civilian mobilization committee will assist the WMC recruit the workers, of which 5,000 will be needed by Baltimore area canneries at peak periods, the director added.

He said sufficient laborers were sought to man the plants and can 22,000,000 cases of food, of which 9,467,900 will be tomatoes and 993,000 tomato juice.

Workers to can an estimated 2,746,000 cases of corn will be needed throughout the state, Fenneman added.

Staff Sergeant Sets Marksmanship Record
FORT BENNING, Ga., July 9. (AP)—Staff Sergeant John J. Lehner of Columbus, near Birmingham, Ala., has officially been credited with what the public relations office here described as one of the most amazing rifle scores in the history of the United States army.

Firing the Browning automatic rifle, one of the most difficult of all infantry weapons to shoot because of its high rate of fire (350 to 550 rounds a minute), Sgt. Lehner scored 209 out of a possible 210 from all positions.

This performance, which occurred during a routine demonstration before an officer candidate class, was witnessed and certified by six officers.

vehemently denied any implication in the crime.

The yacht racer and sportsman, who wears a Van Dyke beard, was arrested at the Oakes home, Barker said he had been under constant surveillance since Oakes's body was found.

De Marigny was married to Oakes's 18-year-old daughter, Nancy, who was in Mexico.

De Marigny formerly used the title count, but later dropped the designation.

Others First Suspected
Barker said that two other persons had been suspected, but that police now were convinced of their innocence.

The body of the 68-year-old American-born Oakes was discovered by H. G. Christie, prominent Bahamian landowner and sportsman, who was a house guest of Sir Harry at Westbourne, the multi-millionaire's Nassau estate.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor occupied the home two years ago while Government House was being renovated.

In Good Health
Oakes had been in good health and continued to play tennis and lead an active social life. He had postponed a trip to the United States in the expectation of showing his newest project, a 1,000 acre sheep ranch, to Nassau newspapermen yesterday afternoon.

Work was suspended on all of the many Oakes enterprises here pending the sending of the body to the United States, where Lady Oakes was waiting at Bar Harbor, Me.

Sir Harry had been the Bahamas' chief property owner and industrialist since he moved to Nassau eight years ago.

Oakes' baronetcy, created in 1939, passed upon his death to his sixteen-year-old son, Sydney, one of five children.

50 Communists Slain By Nazis in Zagreb

BERN, SWITZERLAND, July 9. (AP)—Budapest dispatches to the Basler Nachrichten said today that Axis night patrols had been ordered to shoot anyone found on the streets of Zagreb, Yugoslavia, or its suburbs between 10:30 p. m. and 5 a. m., as new restrictions were imposed in an effort to check sabotage.

The dispatches said fifty "Communists" were executed in Zagreb on June 22, when the deadline expired for the apprehension of guerrillas who blasted a section of the railroad. They were picked from hundreds held by the occupation authorities as hostages, the reports said.

Money in Circulation Hits New Record
WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—Money in circulation in the United States at the end of the last fiscal year June 30 hit a new record of $17,414,151,856, or $128.37 for every man, woman and child in the country, the treasury reported today.

The total represented a gain of $5,031,285,751 over the corresponding date a year ago and was $11,693,387,472 above the amount in circulation on June 30, 1933.

The per capita figure of $128.37 was $213 higher than at the end of May, $36.32 over a year ago and $82.86 above the depression year figure of a decade ago.

Dynamite Found In Charles Town Alley
CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., July 9. (AP)—Two large sticks of dynamite, a fuse and caps were found by two boys in the alley between the local jail and the county court house here last night.

Purchase of such material requires a legal permit, and police were unable to explain the presence of it near the two public buildings.

The explosives have been turned over to Prosecuting Attorney John S. Skinner by Police Chief T. W. Allen for investigation.

spoke of "ferocious fighting" south of Orel where Nazi troops "could gain ground only inch by inch."

Further German advances—these, too, without confirmation—were reported about Belgorod.

This German propaganda report put total Russian tank losses at more than 1,100 and Soviet plane losses at 1,000.

Bomb German Troops
Soviet bombers pounded German troops, tank and convoy concentrations all along the whole front in day and night attacks. One Moscow broadcast declared that in Thursday night's attacks the enemy "suffered heavy casualties" and the Red airforce emerged without loss of any aircraft for the second night in succession.

Russian dispatches said that six Nazi divisions were lunging at a narrow sector south of Orel, but that "the Hitlerites failed to achieve success." Three of the attacking divisions were infantry; three were tanks.

The Germans agreed with Russian accounts that the five-day struggle was growing in intensity, but even the Nazi command could claim no major success.

Though the focal point of fighting shifted to south of Orel, on the basis of these reports, the combat around Belgorod 125 miles south lost none of its critical savagery. Slightly inside the Russian lines, the famous fifty-ton Klim Voroshilov tanks were slugging it out with the sixty-ton German Tigers.

Nazi Losses Heavy
Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said: "The enemy experiences great strain in the Belgorod area owing to heavy losses he has suffered. However, the Germans replenish their losses in equipment and man power and try to increase the weight of their strength. They are bringing into play fresh tanks, infantry and aviation reserves."

The German communique, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said:

"The big struggle in the Belgorod-Orel area goes on with undiminished ferocity. Since day before yesterday, a gigantic tank battle has been raging in the rear or pierced Soviet positions in which the Soviets are making every attempt to check our tempestuous advancing armored spearheads."

The Russians said they had killed 35,000 Germans, destroyed 1,843 tanks and 810 planes in the first four days in the tank battle of unequalled fury.

How Germans Attack
Red Star described how the Germans attacked. The spearheads frequently comprised 20 to 30 Tiger tanks, followed by 40 to 60 self-propelled cannon. Then followed the infantry with older model Mark-III and Mark-IV tanks protecting their flanks. The Russians parried these thrusts mainly with stationary cannon, though Col. Gen. Filip Golikov was sending increasing numbers of mechanized forces into the fray.

The violence of air fighting continued over all the front. The Russians said all German attempts to gain air superiority had failed; the Germans asserted that "the offensive backbone" of the Red army air force had been broken.

Rebekah Lodge, Mi. Savage, Has Installation

Mrs. Minnie Sourbrine, Deputy President, Presides at Ceremony

MT. SAVAGE, July 9.—Wilsey Rebekah Lodge No. 4 installed officers at a meeting last night in the lodge room. Miss Dorothy Evans was installed noble grand.

Other officers are Eva Shaffer, vice grand; Emma Hook, conductor; Edna Witt, warden; Minnie Sourbrine, chaplain; Margaret Crump, right support to grand; and Martha Herring, inside guard.

Mrs. Minnie Sourbrine, deputy president, presided at the installation, assisted by Miss Catherine Ayers, deputy marshal. Edna Witt was deputy warden during the ceremonies. It was decided that the meeting of the Good Will club of the organization, scheduled July 16, would be postponed due to the fact that class initiation will be held on that date.

Mrs. Thomas Adams and Mrs. Arvada Paul were hostesses at the social held after last night's meeting.

Briefs and Personals
H. Reeford Aldridge, Frostburg, will speak at the Sunday morning service in the Methodist church and Mrs. R. E. Purington will speak at the 7:30 o'clock evening service in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Harris M. Waters, who is attending a ministerial conference in New York.

Members of the Mt. Savage Boy Scout troop discussed attending Boy Scout camp this month at a meeting last night in the recreation hall of the Methodist church. Approximately fourteen Scouts from this locality are planning to attend camp.

Baltimore To Have Largest Magnesium Mill
BALTIMORE, July 9. (AP)—The largest magnesium sheet and strip mill in the world will be operating in Baltimore within a few months, the president of Revere Copper and Brass, Inc. announced today.

C. Donald Dallas, company president, at ceremonies awarding the army-navy "E" to the Baltimore plant, said the mill was now under construction.

Dallas accepted the "E" from Capt. Thomas J. Bay, USN, on behalf of plant employees. Among guests at the ceremonies were Governor O'Connor, Theodore R. McKeldin, Mayor of Baltimore, and a group of the company's long-term employees.

The award was the fifth of its kind won by Revere plants, Dallas said, other flags having been presented to employees in Chicago, Detroit, Rome, N. Y., and New Bedford, Mass.

appearance of the naval officers, active or inactive, before your committee as such appearance would be incompatible with the public interest."

A similar letter came from Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war.

Fly Refuses To Testify
Also, Fly declined to testify on direction of the Board of War Communications (BWC), of which he also is chairman. Budget Director Harold D. Smith declined to testify on directions from President Roosevelt.

Eugene L. Garey, committee counsel, had requested information concerning a proposal to transfer the FCC intelligence activities to the military services. The proposal, Garey said last week, emanated from the joint chiefs of staff of the army and the navy but was not acted on by the president.

Fly was requested to submit documents dealing with a BWC hearing on charges Garey said had been preferred against Neville Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters.

BWC Ordered Probe
Garey said the committee had information that the BWC had ordered an investigation of charges that Miller was alleged to have published confidential matter pending before a board committee of which he was a member. Garey said these charges had been made "to punish Mr. Miller for his opposition" to Fly, but was dismissed by the BWC's law branch.

The controversy between Cox and the FCC is of long standing. Recently FCC member Clifford J. Durr protested that Cox had received $2,500 for legal services rendered a Georgia radio station which had a case pending before the FCC. Cox said the money went to charity.

Senators Defeat Indians 1 to 0

CLEVELAND, July 9. (AP)—Washington's squeeze play in the thirteenth inning scored Bob Johnson from third and the Nationals triumphed 1 to 0 over the Cleveland Indians at Municipal Stadium tonight.

Both teams went scoreless for twelve innings and until the eleventh it was a pitching duel between the Tribe's Jim Bagby and Emil Leonard. The Washington hurler was relieved by Rae Scarborough in the eleventh after granting the Indians four hits including a double and single by Ray Cullenbine. Bagby allowed nine blows and was charged with his eighth defeat against seven wins.

In their half of the Tribe's unlucky thirteenth, the Senators opened with Johnson's walk. Alex Kampouris singled, Johnson moving to third. Jack Early then popped to Ray Mack. At this point, Gerald Priddy bunted along the first base line and Johnson raced home with the game's only marker.

Cincinnati Wallops Philadelphia 11 to 4
PHILADELPHIA, July 9. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds hammered out an 11 to 4 victory over the Phillies before 8,286 fans at Shibe Park tonight. Clyde Shoun, taking over after Ed Heusser was pounded out in the third inning, held the Phillies scoreless thereafter, while his teammates scored six runs in a big sixth inning.

Charlark's Homer Defeats Boston
ST. LOUIS, July 9. (AP)—Mike Charlark poked a ninth-inning home run to the roof of the right field stands tonight to give the St. Louis Browns a 5 to 4 decision over the Boston Red Sox. Another homer by Manager Joe Cronin tied the game in the eighth after the Browns had scored three times in a third-inning rally started by Junior Stephens' eleventh circuit clout of the season.

Legion Will Elect Officers and Name Delegates July 13
Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will elect officers for the ensuing year and delegates to the Maryland Department convention, at a meeting Tuesday, July 13, at 8 p. m., at the Legion home, Harrison street.

Candidates for commander to succeed G. Ray Lippold are William H. Fletcher, pressman of the Times and Alleganigan Company; Albert M. Kerns, B.O. machinist; and Charles G. Smith, inspector for the Cumberland Fire Department.

Delegates elected will attend the convention in Baltimore, August 15 and 16.

Vacation Travel Permits Will Be Available After Thursday
Karl Radcliffe, chief clerk of the local ration board, yesterday cautioned motorists eligible for permission for vacation travel not to apply at the local office until after Thursday.

The new order effective July 15 permits one round trip for vacation travel if the motorist has enough gas

Family Dinner Will Mark Birthday Celebration

Mrs. Bee French Troxell Will Be Eighty-Eight Years-Old Monday

MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

Due to war conditions, the celebration of the eighty-eighth birthday of Mrs. Bee French Troxell will be limited to a family dinner Monday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Carl C. Hetzel, 106 Deatur street.

Mrs. Troxell is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. French, Baltimore. She came to Cumberland shortly before the Civil war and is the last member of a large family. Mrs. Hetzel with whom she resides is her only child.

Ever since coming to Cumberland she has been a member of St. Paul's English Lutheran church, and took an active part in its activities until recent years. Mrs. Troxell was active in various civic affairs and was president of the Ladies Auxiliary of Central Y. M. C. A. for thirty-five years. She is in good health, is a great reader and is intensely interested in the news of the day.

WLB Gives Official Notice to Celanese Approving Increases

Official notification of the approval of wage increases for 1,200 staff employees was received yesterday from the War Labor Board by the Celanese Corporation of America, it was announced last evening by Fred T. Small, plant manager. Payments will be made about the middle of this month, he said.

The Celanese corporation is awaiting authorization from the Treasury department to increase the wages of 243 persons listed as holding executive or professional positions at the local plant.

The ceremony was performed June 26 in the parsonage of the Union Grove Methodist church with the Rev. Mr. Merchant officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilson, the former a brother of the bride and the latter a sister of the bridegroom, were the attendants.

The bride is employed by the Celanese Corporation of America and the bridegroom is employed at the Allegany Ordnance plant.

MARRIED FIFTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Frederick Hinze

Local Couple To Observe Fifty-fifth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon F. Hinze To Give Dinner and Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Frederick Hinze will celebrate the fifty-fifth anniversary of their wedding with a family dinner and informal reception tomorrow at their home, 118 Hanover street.

The celebration will begin with the couple attending the worship service at Zion Evangelical and Reformed church, of which they both are members. It will be followed by the dinner and the reception will be held all day beginning at 2 o'clock.

A golden wedding cake will center the refreshment table, and the same color scheme will be carried out in the table appointments and the floral decorations in the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinze were married July 11, 1888, in the parsonage of St. Luke's German Lutheran church, Decatur street, with the late Rev. Mr. Giese, pastor, officiating. Mrs. Charles Hinze, Patterson avenue, and her late husband, a brother of the bridegroom, were the attendants.

Mrs. Hinze was the former Miss Mary Margaret Hering, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Hering, Mechanic street. Mr. Hinze, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hinze, was born in Germany, and came to Cumberland in 1887. For years he was an elder in Zion Reformed church. He is a well known cabinet maker and although he is past eighty years old August 3, he still conducts his business.

Co-operating with the board of education in the project are the county home demonstration agents and the numerous homemakers clubs in Allegany and Garrett counties.

LOCAL MAN AVERTS SERIOUS ACCIDENT BY QUICK THINKING

Quick thinking by Raymond Zimmerman, 216 South Mechanic street, yesterday afternoon probably averted a more serious accident after a car in which he was riding collided with another car near Plintstone, state police said last night.

Trooper Joseph White, who investigated, said a car driven by Lacy B. Cifala, 1126 Virginia avenue, collided with a vehicle driven by Elmer Donald Smith, Route 2, Plintstone, yesterday afternoon at 1:10 o'clock on Route 40, six miles east of this city.

Cifala, Trooper White said, was driving east when his machine collided with the car driven by Smith, who was pulling out of the Miller Chevrolet service station. After Cifala was thrown from the car, Zimmerman, riding beside him, grasped the wheel and steered the car to the side of the road and stopped it.

Cifala suffered lacerations of the body when he was thrown from the car, Trooper White said. Both of the cars were badly damaged, he added.

PROGRAM IS PLANNED BY WOMAN'S CIVIC CLUB

A program including war work, civic work and educational features was formulated for the Woman's Civic Club for the ensuing year at the meeting of the executive board yesterday at the home of Mrs. Thomas LeClear, president, Brad-dock road.

Chairmen for the year were named and committees. They include Mrs. G. Frank Mallin, publicity; Mrs. Harry Deal, American Home Group; Mrs. H. V. Deming, Literature Group; Mrs. Fred T. Small, welfare; Mrs. Cyril M. Croft, hospital; Mrs. William Claus, resolutions; Mrs. Lloyd R. Meyers, war service; Mrs. Carroll France, Perry Point; Mrs. Robert W. Work, civic activities; Mrs. Julius Schindler, legislative and Mrs. Max Freese membership.

The club activities will open on September 23 instead of the usual third Thursday. The place of the meeting to be announced later.

A buffet luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Cyril M. Croft and Mrs. H. T. Robinson. A crystal bowl of garden flowers centered the table and the home was elaborately decorated with bouquets of mixed flowers.

LAVALLE HOMEMAKERS WILL MEET MONDAY

The LaVale Homemakers Club will celebrate the completion of nineteen years of Rural Women's Short Course with a panel discussion on the topic at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Johnson.

Mrs. Claude T. Jett will lead the discussion on "The Value of Nineteen Years of Short Course," in reference to the individual, the club, the community, the county and the state. A summary of the opportunities members have enjoyed in an educational, social and recreational way will also be discussed.

The business meeting will be conducted by Mrs. William Lee. Other members of the program committee are Mrs. Willis R. Hodges, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Ernest Screen and Mrs. J. H. G. Miller. A social hour will conclude the afternoon.

MT. PLEASANT CHURCH GROUP WILL MEET

The Young Adult Fellowship of the Mt. Pleasant Methodist church will meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the church grove. The meeting, originally scheduled for July 6, will be conducted by Mrs. Hayes Clingerman, and will be in the form of a Hebrew camp.

Mrs. Dorothy Smith will tell the story of Abraham and Walter Maxey will tell the story of Moses, as the group is gathered around a campfire.

Club Will Meet

The Rebekah Social Club will hold a picnic at 7 o'clock Monday evening in Constitution park. Impromptu games will follow supper. Mrs. Bertie Rank and Mrs. Amanda Robbette are in charge of arrangements.

Lodge Installation Is Followed by Social Hour

Local Couple Receive Word from Son Who Is Axis Prisoner

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Swann, 568 Fayette street, received their first message Thursday from their son, Pvt. James A. Swann, since he was captured in North Africa February 17. The message came through the medium of communication facilities maintained by the Pope at Vatican City for prisoners of war.

Dated February 24, the message read as follows:

"Safe and sound in a transit camp in Italy. Letters following. Going to Germany, Love." Pvt. Swann enlisted June 10, 1942, and was stationed at Fort George G. Meade until October of that year when he was transferred to England. A month later he was sent to Algiers in North Africa. He is a graduate of LaSalle high school in the class of 1940.

Mrs. Davidson Is Guest at Supper

Mrs. Lucile Davidson was honor guest of Mrs. Vivian Maroney at a spaghetti supper Thursday evening at the latter's home, North Lee street, in celebration of her third wedding anniversary.

Spring flowers centered the dinner table and covers were laid for seven. Gifts were presented to the honor guest.

District Deputy Installs Officers of Chosen Friends Lodge

Officers of Chosen Friends Lodge No. 34, Independent Order of Odd Fellows were installed by Earl P. Cunningham, district deputy, last evening in the temple, South Mechanic street. He was assisted in the installation by George McCracken.

Charles A. Jewell was installed as noble grand; Charles P. Phares, vice-grand; A. Florian Wilson, recording secretary; John J. Tipton, financial secretary; and Joseph Klawahn, treasurer.

A social hour concluded the evening and refreshments were served. Approximately fourteen members attended.

ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

SYNOPSIS
KAREN BELL, wealthy and lovely, finds an auto and trailer blocking her way as she drives down a Palm Beach boulevard. The rather impertinent young man driving it moves only after considerable bickering.

CHAPTER TWO
THROUGHOUT the remainder of the day, Karen found herself continuing to wonder about the shabby young man of the trailer.

Who did he think he was, anyway, that he could talk as he had to her, Karen Bell? What did he think he was doing, blocking the Ocean highway with that contraption that he called his "home"? Was he really afraid to encounter the law? Otherwise, why had he thanked her for warning him that he actually was liable to arrest, emphasizing that he did not dare meet up with the law right now, to use his own words?

This was the beginning of "the season," as it was called by the natives, when people of all sorts flocked, like birds following the sun, into the little towns lining the coast. Therefore it was not surprising to find all sorts of people, desirable and otherwise, among this assorted migration. But Palm Beach, being so exclusive and restricted, did not encourage the seasonal influx as did the other towns that depended largely for their subsistence upon the tourists and vacationists.

It was a fact, as Karen had informed the young man of the trailer, that there was a law prohibiting trailers—and the sort of people who drove them—from settling, or even driving, in such an exclusive area. There was even a saying that its oldest—and wealthiest—residents wished that there could have been huge, gridded gates across the bridges that would forever keep such outsiders out. As the bells were among the wealthiest and oldest of these families it was not to be wondered at that Karen had felt such resentment against that insolent intruder and his dented trailer.

Resentment that still rankled, not only throughout that long day, but on into the evening—even when she was dancing on the moonlit patio of the Country Club in Paul Wyatt's encircling arms.

"What's wrong with you tonight, darling?" Paul asked. For although he did not know what it was, he knew that something was bothering Karen. He knew her so well that he always sensed any change in her mood. He knew that although she was dancing with him, she was far away from him in her thoughts. That gave him a case for resentment, too.

"Nothing's wrong," Karen denied, almost too emphatically. There was no reason why she should keep on thinking and wondering about the trailer man—she would never see him again. There was no reason, either, why she should not have turned him or his license number over to the police. She had had every intention of doing so, but—again for no reason—she had not.

"Perhaps you would rather not dance," Paul suggested, his dark eyes searching her face for some clue to her thoughts, since she had refused to give him a direct answer. "Would you like to walk down to the shore and look at the ocean? Or maybe you'd prefer to take a drive to get cooled off a bit?"

Karen said, "It is rather warm. Whatever you'd like to do, Paul." Her blue eyes smiled into his, for she knew that she had not deceived him in trying to deny that anything was wrong. . . . though nothing was, really. Why should she care that some unknown shabby stranger had told her she was a nasty little mob? For though the trailer man had not used those words, Karen knew very well that that had been what he had thought her. Why should she care what he thought about her? There was no reason on earth why Karen Bell should be concerned about a man who lived in a trailer.

"We'll look at the ocean then," Paul decided, taking her arm in a masterful manner and leading her toward that goal. That would suit his purpose better. There was something he wanted to talk about, get settled about her. There was no reason on earth why Karen Bell should be willing to go on forever, as they were, without anything ever being definitely settled.

"Well, it should be tonight," Paul decided further.

There was a stone bench on the bluff overlooking the sea. The moonlight cast a shimmering sort of silver far out to the horizon. From the clubhouse came the faint rise and fall of lifting music. Even Paul could not have asked for a more opportune or romantic setting.

"So much ocean," Karen said, thinking again of what the blond young man had said—that anyone could look at the ocean since it belonged, by rights, to any and every man. "I hope there's enough of it," she added, "to keep us safe and away from this dreadful war that seems crowding closer and closer."

She had never known anything, except being safe and sheltered, in all her 20 years. She supposed that that was what the man of the trailer had meant when he had said a cat could look at a queen. He had sensed the vast difference between himself and her, a distance as great as the sea.

"I hope so, too," Paul said soberly. But his tone did not hold conviction. He belonged to Karen's world, the safe world of plenty, typified by the exclusiveness of this winter colony. It seemed inconceivable that such a world could suffer change, but he knew that well it might with kingdoms falling, democracies threatened—which was another reason Paul was determined to have things settled, so that nothing could change in that at least, between himself and Karen.

"Darling," he said, reaching over to take her hands in his—she was so indescribably lovely in the moonlight that she almost made him catch his breath—"there's something else I'm hoping . . . you know what it is . . . why won't you say, definitely, that you'll marry me this winter? You know that everyone, your dad, my family, all our friends, expect us to marry some day. Why don't we announce the date next week at the Moonlight Festival? That would be an appropriate time. Then everything would be settled."

"Aren't we doing all right?" Karen's tone was light, even bantering, but she did not withdraw her hands. "Most men aren't so eager to give up their freedom. Once I set the date you can't back out!" Of course she would marry Paul some day; they had been sweethearts for ages, grown up together. But she was not in any hurry to change things. Maybe that was wrong, to be so satisfied with things as they were; maybe that was part of being a sort of snob.

"But I want things definite. I want to know that no matter what happens nothing will change for us. I believe that your father would like things settled for us, too, Karen. In fact, I already have talked it over with him."

"You practically have it settled then—without me?" Karen laughed. But she knew she could no longer put Paul off with teasing. If he wanted their engagement formally announced it would be all right with her. Especially if her dad would like it that way. She told Paul so, giving him her lips to seal the bargain.

She did not want anything to happen to change her world. Any safeguard against that was good. What she did not realize was that everything must change in every world—life is not motionless, only death. Every man's world was tumbling around his head, but Karen had not awakened to that yet, either.

Vitamins for the Swing Shift

MIDNIGHT SNACK: Cold croquette, relish, tomato and a roll are the nutritious mainstays of this ice-box late lunch. Dessert is a minute-made salad—your swingshifter just slices a doughnut in half, spreads it with a thin cream cheese coating, adds a slice of peace and a lettuce leaf, and presto! He has an eye-filling finish for that midnight meal.

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
AP Food Editor

Keeping the family well fed and meal happy has become a round-the-clock job for many homemakers. Their ration-point and balanced menu planning sometimes has to include the preparation of attractive meals for defense workers on a night shift. That means something good to eat, nourishing and easy to digest has to be on hand for quick self-service.

For the late eater, I keep a shelf in the refrigerator equipped with foods that have snack-appetite appeal. This is not just a conglomerate of left-overs but an assortment of meats, relishes, and dessert trimmings arranged in small dishes.

Cold Meat's a Treat

I save out from dinner a couple of pieces of roast, a cooked chop, two slices of tongue or ham, or a fried chicken leg or breast. This gets the eater out of the sandwich rut—since sandwiches are the backbone of most carry lunches. Bread and butter round out the home meal.

Fish salad, neatly stored in a covered bowl, provides a pick-up dish, just heavy enough for summer eating. A peeled tomato is good. Keep a special covered jar or container supplied with small amounts of lettuce, radishes, small white onions and olives or pickles. These relishes, chilled and crisp, go well with cold meat and salads.

Sometimes the night eater likes to take a tray to his room, so for a change I place a tray near the refrigerator, fitted with a small pitcher to hold milk or fruit juices, paper napkins, plates and silverware. He may also enjoy a bottle of cold gingerale.

Vitamins via Juices

Combinations of grapefruit and orange juices, grape and lemon or tomato juice—opened and ready to drink—are a fine way to get in

DON'T
Use cracked or chipped jars. Store jars in light. Can on a hot sultry day. Use corroded tops a second time. Can overripe fruit. Pack jars too full. Crowd the hot water canner. Immerse pressure gauge in water. Cool jars in drafts.

Attempt to tighten screw bands or caps after jars have cooled. Garden cress, an annual herb, is easily grown during cool weather and because of its peppery flavor is a useful addition to salads. The White House was the first public building erected in Washington.

Problems of the Blind Are Sometimes Revealed by Dreams, Study Indicates

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Dreams used to be the football of psychology; anybody could philosophize about them as much as he liked. Since the publication of Freud's "Interpretation of Dreams," however, they have become an extremely important source of interpretation of normal and abnormal states of thought. Naturally, in order to attain this changed status, it has been necessary to study them far more scientifically than was done in the old days.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPE

Salad Crops for Fall Use from Victory Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Many of the finest greens for salad use can be gathered from the Victory garden in the fall. Endive, lettuce and Chinese cabbage all grow well in cool weather. The chief advantage of fall harvested salad greens is that there is less tendency for them to go to seed. In the case of endive it becomes much sweeter as the cool weather advances and loses much of its bitter taste with the first light frost.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, two popular types of celery or Chinese cabbage are Chihli and Wong Bok. Chihli has a long, compact head which resembles celery when the outer leaves are removed. It has crisp flesh and a nutty flavor. The leaves are very thin, slightly wrinkled, considerably veined and of a light green color. Wong Bok has a broad, solid, compact head which is self-closing and does not need to be tied up.

For a fall crop of Chinese cabbage seed can be sown as late as the middle of August. It is best to sow the seed where the plants are to mature to avoid the setback caused by transplanting them.

Chinese cabbage can be served raw in salads or a cold slaw or it may be cooked and served like cabbage.

hearing responds to sounds and distinguishes a musical scale with the notes in progressive arrangement, either higher or lower. The same thing is true of the sense of sight, although we do not quite so readily arrange colors in a graduated scale according to the spectrum.

Under no circumstances do the two modalities of sight and sound conflict. In other words, we never mistake a color for a musical sound. This is true of all the senses with the possible exception of taste and smell, which are sometimes likely to mix because neither of them is very definite. We say a thing smells sour and tastes sour.

In the case of the blind a great many substitutions do occur. Blind people have to imagine colors in terms of sound. Thus, one of them said that she imagined red as the sound of a trumpet.

The case of the individual analyzed by Dr. Kiehlholz, was that of a blind girl who had been abandoned by her parents and who had become blind in early childhood. She had developed behavior disorders and split personality. When her dreams were analyzed and explained to her, she found for the first time a satisfying explanation of her condition in the world.

She obtained an outline of a reality on which she could fix and normally develop the network of her mental workings. Thus she overcame a life-long hatred of her parents and reconciled herself to the role of a woman, and a blind woman, in a world where she could be useful instead of troublesome. Questions and Answers D. S.: How do explosions cause concussions in the human body and how do they cause deaths of humans near the vicinity of the explosive force?

Answer: Concussions occur only to organs in an enclosed, rigid space in the body, such as to the brain—inside the skull—and to the organs inside the chest. An explosion sets up a series of waves in the air which is communicated to solid structures when it impinges on them. When these waves hit a structure as brain tissue in the skull, there is no elasticity in the container and the inside organs are fragmented. In London bombings were found where the lungs literally torn to fragments others with great cracks in brain tissue.

D. D.: What is erythema nodosum? Answer: Erythema nodosum is a nodular eruption on the usually ascribed to rheumatism.

Rathbun Announces Appointment Of Teachers for Garrett County

Four Vacancies Still Exist; Several Persons Hand in Resignations

OAKLAND, July 9 — Teachers for the five high schools of the county were announced by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, and with the exception of four vacancies the list is complete. There are no changes among the principals of the five schools.

Rathbun expressed the hope that these four vacancies would be filled in the near future. He said he had experienced unusual difficulty in procuring teachers for the coming term, not only in the high schools but for principals of one-room schools that are away from the main highways.

High school teachers include the following:
Friendsville—W. J. Glenn, principal; Lucille Harvey, Arthur Scrogum, Elizabeth Virginia Stemple, Charley Miller.

Grantsville—Frank J. Getty, principal; Emma Caulk, Kathryn Speicher, Lucy Palmerino, William C. Grimm, Laura D. Turner, Lawrence Faith. One vacancy exists, in social studies, due to resignation of Zaidie Williams, Mr. Rathbun said.

Ari Teachers Resign
Accident—B. O. Aiken, principal; Mabel Schlossnagle, Margaret Rudy, Eugene S. Schlossnagle, Mrs. Ruth MacMurray Patterson.

There is a vacancy in industrial arts, due to resignation of Eugene Harpold; one in mathematics due to resignation of Mary Lyle Smith and one in English due to resignation of Miss Dorothea Fridinger who has gone to Fort Hill high, Cumberland. Two instructors are still undecided, Miss Catherine Baker, art; and Miss Rosalyn Allen, mathematics.

Kittmiller—O. P. Jones, principal; Margaret Kochenderfer, Emily Fox Moon, Elizabeth W. Harris and Mildred L. Schmidt, the latter home economics instructor, a recent graduate of Bridgewater college, and native of Swanton. There is also a vacancy in Kittmiller for an industrial arts teacher.

Rathbun said he had been unable to obtain teachers thus far to accept principalship in fifteen one-teacher schools that are located in the majority of cases, off the state highways.

Several Teachers Needed
He sent forth a plea for anyone knowing of a qualified person who could meet the teaching requirements to get in touch with him at the court house. He said normally he would have had from seventy-five to 100 applications but that they were very few at present.

He listed the following schools as still without teachers: Frankville, Fort Hill and Mt. Zion, District one; Chestnut Grove, District four; Sang Run and Hayes Run, District six; Red Oak, Red House and Steyer in District eight; Spring Glade, Wilson and Bolling Spring, District ten; Piney Run, District eleven; Avilton, District fifteen and Lyndale, District sixteen.

He stated if no teachers were obtainable the only solution would be to take the pupils to other nearby schools.

Upon resignation of Mrs. Edith Wainer Bolton as teacher in the second and third grades of Oakland Elementary school, Mrs. Harriet Callis Casteel is being appointed to fill the vacancy, he announced.

Mansion Will Become Dormitory for Girls

ST. MARY'S W. Va., July 9 (AP)—What is now a deserted element-ravaged mansion soon will become a dormitory for thirty-one girls transferred to the West Virginia Training School from the state children's home at Elkins.

Superintendent O. L. Quillen said that the imposing building overlooking the Ohio river would be made into modern quarters for the mentally deficient children.

The 649-acre estate on which the mansion now stands was purchased by Thomas Browne, a young Englishman, in 1831 for $5,500. His son, Robert Henry Browne, built the big home as a surprise for his wife while she was visiting overseas.

When the remodeling job is completed, the winding stairs that had been the pride of all the owners will have been removed and replaced by a back stairway and a playground and a skylight.

Dr. Myers Urges Parents To Teach Child Reverence

Youngsters Should Be Considerate of Others' Rights and Feelings

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Whether or not you are religious or wish your child to be so, there is a certain degree of reverence desirable in the child for moral reasons, even for reasons of "good breeding." The child or adult who engages in levity in the presence of others with a very reverent attitude, or "wisecracks" about what is very sacred to others is selfish, rude and inconsiderate of their rights and feelings.

Perhaps it is even of greater moral harm to the child pretending to be religious, exposed to religious worship or participating in religious activities, to engage in trifling gaiety.

Several weeks ago I addressed a "Young People's" meeting. A number of these rural young folks ranging in ages from 15 to 20 rose, one at a time, and read or gave from memory a poem or bit of verse, or made some comment on the subject at hand. Also there were several selections with musical instruments and some group singing.

Seriousness Important
I was happily impressed with the seriousness of those who participated and with the audience. Often in such a group there is a war or two who suppose he should make a wise-crack now and then, or one or two couples who disturb the rest by their selfish conversation.

FLYING 'TIN-FISH' FOR AXIS

THESE "TIN-FISH" are the airborne type of torpedo which U. S. planes will send against Axis ships. They cost $10,500 each and are being inspected by navy officers and worker experts at the American Can Company's Amertorp plant in Forest Park, Ill.

You have observed them in church services. Such a couple may be annoyances at regular services or just while on vacation, say from college. Usually these youths feel rather important, and more often than not, represent the more influential families of the congregation. No such expression of selfishness and irreverence happened at that "young people's" meeting.

When I rose to speak I sincerely complimented them:

"You young folks have demonstrated here tonight a splendid spiritual and moral atmosphere. You had your good time before the services began and will have more good times after the meeting. Then you proceeded seriously as if mature men and women of refinement."

Display of Good Character
"Neither as audience nor participants did you mix fun and worship. You all contributed to a truly inspirational atmosphere. I'm glad you have so many good times together at occasions set aside for fun. I'm also glad you display so much good character as to be serious when you know you should."

"Most of you participate in the Sunday school and church services of this fine community and a large number of you make up the church choir. There, too, you also have proved your excellent sense of values by your self-discipline and refined decorum, as I have observed."

Let us parents be generous in expressing our appreciation to the growing child and youth for all such worthy attitudes in connection with religious and other serious matters. Let us set them good examples by our own decorum at religious services and in all our passing remarks at home. Let us speak only respectfully of the religious practices of others and not joke about matters which many others consider sacred.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Your chair-sitting punishment would not work with my nine-year-old daughter. As you advised, I had her sit in a chair where I could see her, for an hour, for failing to be in bed at the regular time scheduled and she fell asleep.

A. Next time, have her stand instead for about thirty minutes.

Q. You often discuss special sleep problems in the child. Do you have a bulletin which brings together most of these problems and ways of solving them?

A. Yes; my "Sleep Problems" may be had by writing me at 235 East Forty-fifth street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Airline Fares To Be Reduced

CHICAGO, July 9. (AP)—Airplane passenger fares will be reduced to levels approximating first class railroad rates and in some cases lower on United Air Lines July 15, the system announces.

Harold Cray, vice president in charge of traffic, said the new schedules presented a system-wide reduction of approximately ten per cent and, in some cases, amounted to as much as twenty-eight per cent.

"The public can regard this substantial rate reduction as evidence of a policy of cutting fares as rapidly as is consistent with sound business practices and as conditions warrant," W. A. Patterson, president of United, said.

Has Old Paper

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 9 (AP)—G. B. Umberger has in his possession an old land grant, written more than 243 years ago on genuine sheep's skin which is still in an excellent state of preservation.

The grant was given to John Stephenson by John Monroe in 1702, when he was governor of Virginia. It was for 100 acres of land in Wytche county, Virginia, and the original deed is one of the oldest ever exhibited here.

The grant went to John Stephenson and the property later passed to the Helderth family but for the past three generations it has been in the hands of the Umbergers. It was first conveyed June 21, 1803 to William Umberger, then to Samuel Umberger and later to James B. Umberger, the father of the two brothers who reside here and operate the farm.

Defense of Bataan Is Grimly Told in New Film

Thirteen heroic soldiers, facing hordes of Japanese invaders, battle grimly to stave off the oncoming enemy in a dramatic episode in the defense of the Philippines, in "Bataan," which is now showing at the Maryland theater. Told with stark realism, the picture shows Americans exactly what the heroes on the Islands went through.

Robert Taylor heads a cast that includes George Murphy, Thomas Mitchell, Lloyd Nolan, Lee Bowman, Robert Walker, Desi Arnaz, Barry Nelson, Phillip Terry, Tom Dugan, Kenneth Spencer and others. A swampy jungle is the scene of action.

More than fifty per cent of the SPARS serve as stenographers or typists and are rated as yeomen.

Tim Holt Is Starred In Garden Western

Currently playing at the Garden theater is "Bandit Ranger," a Western starring Tim Holt. One of the best in the series, the picture has an excellent cast that includes Cliff Edwards, Joan Barclay and Kenneth Harlan.

The co-feature at the Garden today is "Scattergood Survives a Murder," based on the famous Saturday Evening Post series. Guy Kibbee is starred and receives first-

Cooper Blanks Braves for His Eleventh Win

Cardinal Ace Faces Only 28 Men and Pitches Three-Hit Ball

BOSTON, July 9 (AP)—Mort Cooper faced only twenty-eight men and pitched three-hit ball as he led the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-0 victory over the Boston Braves today. It was Cooper's eleventh win of the season.

The Cardinal ace never was endangered by the Braves after his mates teed off on Red Barrett in the first inning, when they scored four times. Cooper allowed only one runner to get past first base.

St. Louis put the game on ice quickly as Lou Klein opened the game with a double, Harry Walker followed with a single and Stan Musial and Danny Litwiler also hit safely before Barrett got a man out.

Walker Kurowski's cleverly flied bunt for a single and a wild throw by Bill Brubaker gave the Cards a four-run lead.

Barrett surrendered another run in the third and Kirby Farrell, who started pitching against the world champs in the fourth, was touched for a pair of runs in the eighth.

Bill Brubaker, who was credited with two of three Boston hits off Cooper, singled to open the sixth and Whitey Wietelmann followed suit with Brubaker halting at second. Farrell, however, hit sharply to Klein who started a fast double play and Tommy Holmes hoisted a fly to Litwiler with Brubaker perched on third. The box:

Tigers Shut Out Mackmen, 4 to 0, Behind Hal White

Bengals Climb within Two Games of Idle New York Yankees

DETROIT, July 9 (AP)—The second-place Detroit Tigers claimed two games from the idle New York Yankees by blanking the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 0, on little Hal White's four-hit performance in a twilight game tonight.

The Tigers gathered eleven hits off lanky Russ Christopher and two successors, and one of the safeties was Rookie Dick Wakefield's second lining single for his hundredth hit, highest total in the major leagues.

White, whose only previous victory against seven defeats came a month ago, permitted only two Mackmen to advance beyond first base, one getting as far as third.

The victory was Detroit's eleventh in the last thirteen starts. Christopher walked Don Ross and Wakefield with one out in the first, and then Pinky Higgins and Rudy York each singled a run across. Another scored on Paul Richard's infield single before Christopher fanned White with the bases filled to end the inning.

In the fifth, Wakefield walked again, moved to third on Higgins' single and scored as Ned Harris rapped into a double play.

Christopher retired in the seventh with a lame arm and went down to his sixth defeat against four victories. The box:

Dodgers Defeat Buc with Rally in Tenth Inning

Surprise Squeeze Bunt by Herman Climaxes Late Brooklyn Spree

BROOKLYN, July 9 (AP)—A surprise squeeze bunt by Billy Herman with the score tied, bases loaded and two out, climaxed a four-run tenth inning rally to give Brooklyn an 8 to 7 victory over Pittsburgh today.

The Pirates apparently had won the game by scoring three runs on four hits off Ed Head and Kirby Higbe in the top of the tenth, but the Dodgers bounced right back against Bob Klinger, fourth Pirate hurler, who failed to retire any of the five men he faced.

Here's how the Dodgers did it: Camille Galan singled, Dolph Amund and Bobby Bragan walked, filling the bases. Galan scored when Pete Costello fumbled Al Glosop's grounder. Pinchhitter, Dee Moore walked forcing in Camille and bringing Bill Brandt to Klinger's relief. Arkie Vaughan and Frenchy Bordagary hit grounders on which Barkey, running for Bragan, and Glosop were forced at the plate. Joe Medwick then beat out an infield hit scoring Moore with the tying run and setting the stage for Herman's winning bunt.

Pittsburgh held a 4-1 lead going into the seventh, but the Dodgers tied it on four doubles by Glosop, Vaughan, Bordagary and Medwick. The box:

West Point Leaders
More than a few words have been written about the performances of American athletes on various battle fronts.

But the administrative branch of athletics at both West Point and Annapolis has set up a record that has been overlooked.

Since we moved into the war picture West Point, for example, has had three such officers moved into front rank—Lt. General Jake Devers, Major General Phil Fleming and Louis Hibbs.

Ray McCarthy, co-ordinator of sports for the War Department last year, was discussing this trio recently.

"General Fleming, when I first knew him in 1928 was then Major Fleming. He assumed office as graduate manager of athletics succeeding Col. Koehler. Fleming was the dreamer; the visualizer. He planned and carried out the first expansive program of athletics and athletic facilities ever arranged for any institution of learning. He insisted that every cadet participate in some kind of athletics and he planned accordingly. General Fleming built the new beautiful ice rink at West Point; he planned and built the picturesque Michie stadium; he provided a magnificent polo field; a golf course, tennis courts, handball courts, basketball courts, etc. And he would have been building this day at the Point but General Fleming went on to bigger things—to the building of levees on the Mississippi to the Passamaquoddy project in Maine and finally to the building of the gigantic and tremendous highway to Alaska just finished.

"When General Devers, a colonel then, took over at West Point he had been away from athletics for many years. During his cadet days at West Point, 1910 he was a good athlete, especially in baseball and played shortstop on the varsity nine.

"He developed the vast new athletic field on the Hudson below the cliffs at West Point. General Devers constructed a tremendously big field house where the Dodgers trained last year. He built new baseball diamonds. He went beyond even what General Fleming had done and he too, insisted that every cadet participate in athletics but aggressively so. Physical fitness was a religion with Devers but victory also was as keen to him as performance. He wanted West Point to have the best in every sport and he left nothing undone to accomplish his purpose. He scheduled the toughest football teams he could find. He built huge gate attractions and he kept building in every direction in athletics constantly.

"Then came the rumblings of war and late in 1938, General Devers bade good-bye to athletics at West Point and embarked on a meteoric career. He went first to Panama to build our defenses in Central America. Next to Trinidad; thence to Bermuda; back to Washington and then he went into the field to train soldiers, and to build camps. On my way North from Florida in 1940, I stopped by Fort Bragg to visit General Devers. He had actually performed wonders within three months time in enlarging this camp to accommodate some fifty thousand soldiers where previously it had accommodated five thousand. General Devers next went to Fort Knox to develop our armored tank forces and his work in this field is now known everywhere. Upon the death of General Andrews this spring, General Devers was named to succeed him in directing our arms in Europe.

Next in Line
"Succeeding General Devers at West Point was the mild-mannered Colonel Hibbs, one of the most charming and gracious personalities I have ever met. Hibbs was the ideal public relations man. He made friends for the army and for West Point especially, wherever he went. Nothing was too good for the army as far as General or Colonel Hibbs was concerned but also nothing was too good for the opponents who visited the Point. Colonel Hibbs was tremendously proud of being an army man, a West Point graduate, and he endeavored always and earnestly to register that thought, not through any bearing on his part but by his many generous and thoughtful deeds.

"Many men who have gone out from West Point are doing wonderfully well on the battlefield today but it must be remembered that all of those who have gone forth from the academy on the Hudson in the past generation, were influenced and developed by their participation in the athletic programs conceived and developed by these three generals—Fleming, Devers and Hibbs—1925-1943."

Pen-Mar League Last-Half Chase Opens Tomorrow
The second half championship race of the Pen-Mar Baseball League will be inaugurated tomorrow afternoon when Cumberland's Queen City Brewers entertain Wellersburg on the North End Playground field here and Centerville's Reds, opening dash winners, oppose Westvaco on the latter's diamond at Memorial park. Westernport. Both games will start at 3 o'clock.

Centerville, which didn't lose a battle during the first half, hopes to keep the ball rolling. In coping the opening round, the Reds won eight straight contests but after clinching the flag, were held to a 1-1 tie in twelve innings by the Brewmen.

Westvaco, winner of three of its last four starts, captured four of nine engagements during the first half. Two of the setbacks were at the hands of Centerville, 6-5 and 6-0, with Ival "Speed" Lambert and Melvin Nee the winning pitchers. Lambert is unbeaten, having recorded five straight victories. He will probably start on the mound for the Reds tomorrow.

The Brewers showed a lot of improvement in their last two starts, defeating Westvaco 10-8 and holding Centerville to a tie. In tomorrow's scrap, the Queen City combination will be striving for its first victory over Wellersburg in three meetings, Manager Robert Witt's Pennsylvanians having topped the Brewmen 9-5 and 6-1 in first-half engagements.

Wellersburg has dropped its last five encounters but managed to finish one notch higher than Queen City in the opening stretch. The Brewmen won only two starts to date, both of them over Westvaco.

Ty Cobb Doesn't See Why Baseball Can't Continue

Georgia Peach Once Again Differs with Old Rival, Babe Ruth

DETROIT, July 9 (AP)—Ty Cobb declared today that baseball by all means should continue in, wartime and furthermore that he saw no reason why it couldn't survive.

Without mentioning his old rival specifically, the 56-year-old former Georgia Peach took another shot at Babe Ruth, who was quoted recently as saying that major league baseball was losing money fast and would surely have to close shop.

Deserves Right to Operate
"I think baseball should continue by all means," asserted Cobb, making a business trip to Detroit where he served two decades as player and manager. "I was sorry to see the Texas League and some others fold up without putting up a stronger fight to keep going."

"Baseball deserves the right to operate. It's a great American institution, and in my opinion, it has done much to prepare young men physically and mentally for war."

Always regarded in his profession as an astute business man, Cobb said he thought at least some of the major league clubs would make more money this year than under normal conditions.

Clubs Have Saved Money
"Spring training in the North certainly was not so expensive as training in the South," he reasoned. "All the clubs have reduced their squads and cut transportation. Besides, many of the bigger salaries were saved by the departure for the service of fellows like Hank Greenberg, Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio."

Cobb, who makes his home at Glenbrook, Nev., didn't go into the man power question that perhaps is worrying the magnates most of all. As a captain in the Chemical Warfare Division in France in the last war, the Georgia Peach was proud to report to old friends that one son, Howell, is in officer training at Fort Riley, Kan., and another, Ty, Jr., has finished internship at Augusta, Ga., and is headed for the army medical corps.

Market Wise Tops Field for Butler
NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Market Wise, Lou Thraiano's bargain hunter who finally hit the jackpot last Monday in the Massachusetts handicaps, goes after his second rich stake of the week tomorrow when he tangles with nine worthy rivals in the $30,000-adder Butler handicap at Jamaica, where the Empire City meeting is being held.

The five-year-old son of Broker's Tip had been foiled in every one of his bids for the big sugar this year until he came rolling home in front in the Massachusetts cap.

That gave him $39,650 of the $46,650 he has earned in 1943 for the Jamaica contractor.

For the Butler handicap, named in honor of the man who started the horses running at Empire City, Market Wise will pick up top weight of 127 pounds, one more than has been assigned to Mrs. Payne Whitney's Shut Out, 1942's leading money winner who was scratched from the Massachusetts handicap.

Since Shut Out has been pretty much of a fizzle this season, Market Wise's chief opposition is expected to come from William Helia's Salto, Louis B. Mayer's Thumbs Up and William Woodward's Apache.

Charles Town Track Turns Over $33,196.29 To War Fund, Charity
CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., July 9 (AP)—The National War Fund and eight West Virginia charitable institutions have received a total of $33,196.29, the proceeds from twelve special days of racing at the Charles Town race track.

President Albert J. Boyle of the Charles Town Jockey Club said the National War Fund received $16,648.14.

The sum of $1,977.78 each went to the Chestnut Ridge Camp Association, Morgantown; the Children's Home Society of Davis Child Center, Charleston; the Morris Memorial hospital, Milton; the Charles Town General hospital, and the Monaca County Tuberculosis Association's Eastmont sanatorium.

The West Virginia Foundation for Crippled Children at Berkeley Springs received $3,329.63. The Kings Daughters hospital and the City hospital, both at Martinsburg, received checks for $1,664.81 each.

"The Authority on Authorities"

FAVOR UNBID MAJORS
MORE AND more strong defensive players are favoring the lead of an unbid major suit against a No Trump game, in preference to their own long minor suit, especially if the minor is headed by a king or queen. Leading away from it may give the declarer the one trick he needs to make his contract. The unbid major doubleton or trebleton is pretty likely to be their partner's suit, and pays frequent dividends if your own hand is weak enough so that your partner probably holds some honor strength for reentries.

where this hand was dealt, and the result depended entirely on the opening lead. It is quite obvious that a spade lead cannot be considered, with North bidding that suit, and neither could a diamond, in view of South's bid and rebid, so the choice lay between hearts and clubs.

At one table East opened the club 5, making the J a winner. A diamond trick was ducked to West, and after the heart return North ran game scoring four tricks in diamonds, three in clubs and two in hearts.

East of the other team opened the heart 7. Of course that put his partner's holding "under the hammer," which would have killed off any single honor or unhappily-placed tenace. But the difference between this and the club lead is that there was a good possibility of consecutive high cards there, much better than that West held some solidifying clubs. Now, no matter how North played, he could not find a ninth trick, as a club finesse was doomed to fail, and the spade K lay under the A. Consequently, he was set a trick.

Local Soldier In Texas Dies Of Sunstroke

Parents of Leonard Happe, Enroute to Camp, Notified of Death

Pvt. Leonard Frederick Happe, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Happe, LaVale, died Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Camp Hood, Texas, as a result of a sunstroke received while he was in training.

His parents, who received word Tuesday evening that he was seriously ill from a sunstroke, were in Chicago waiting for a Dallas plane when word of his death came from Camp Hood. They had flown from Washington to Chicago but had to wait twelve hours for a plane South.

Mr. and Mrs. Happe, together with their son, Ralph Arthur Happe, 20, a student at Carnegie Tech, arrived here yesterday afternoon. His father is chief accountant of the Celanese plant.

The body will be shipped here from Camp Hood, but no details were available early last evening.

Mr. Happe, a graduate of Allegheny high school, class of 1943, was born in Baltimore. He received his elementary education in LaVale.

Was Inducted June 23

Inducted into the United States Army June 23 from Local Board No. 3 he was sent to Camp George G. Meade, and from there he went to Camp Hood, Texas, for basic training. As a result of his classification tests he was selected for specialized training in the A. S. T. C.

He was a member of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church and was active in extra-curricular activities at Allegheny high school.

An outstanding musician he was concert master of the Allegheny high school orchestra of which he was a member for six years. He conducted several numbers at the spring concert the orchestra gave this year.

Was Outstanding Musician

Mr. Happe was first violinist in the Allegheny High School Alumni orchestra and attended the National Music camp at Interlochen, Mich., for four years. He was also a member of an instrumental ensemble of Allegheny high school.

He was winner of the Tasker O. Lowndes declamation contest in Allegheny high this year and took the leading part in the senior play, "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Besides his parents and his brother, he is survived by his grandfather, Richard F. Happe, and one aunt, Miss Hilda G. Happe, both of North Haven, Conn., and an uncle, Herman R. Happe, Baltimore.

GEORGE W. MCINTOSH

George Washington McIntosh, 66, died Thursday evening at his residence in Bowman's addition.

A native of Keyser, Mr. McIntosh was a son of the late George W. and Mary Cook McIntosh. He lived in this city for nine years.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Julia May (Walker) McIntosh; two daughters, Mrs. Leo McKenzie, Cresaptown, and Miss Isabelle McIntosh, Cumberland; one son, Vincent E. McIntosh, U. S. Army in England; two sisters, Mrs. Frances deBlanc, Marcus Hook, Pa.; and Mrs. Sadie McKenzie, Cresaptown; five brothers, Frank McIntosh, Westernport; Robert A. McIntosh and James S. McIntosh, Pinto; Richard I. McIntosh, this city, and Roger W. McIntosh, Centerville, Pa.; seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The body has been taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Leo McKenzie, Cresaptown.

Onion Famine Is Felt Here

Crops Are Reported 'Light' and Weather Has Not Been Suitable

The once lowly onion is rapidly coming into its own.

For years no one ever mentioned the onion, except perhaps your wife, who might warn you not to eat them raw because you were going out that night.

And now suddenly everybody's talking about onions. The reason: they've vanished.

Because they're gone, folks have suddenly realized the important role the onion played in the daily diet.

Not only is the scarcity being felt in Cumberland but it's nationwide.

A local food market manager said that the famine put in its appearance about a week ago and expressed the opinion that the onion situation will straighten itself out as did the recent potato shortage.

Prices also have gone sky high wherever the onions are available, according to a local restaurateur who obtained his last fifty pound bag for $4.75. Several months ago the same restaurateur paid only $1.85 for fifty pounds.

Produce men in the larger cities predict that the situation will get worse. They do not believe the onion situation will be similar to the potato scarcity when famine was followed by an overabundance. Crops have been reported "light" all over the country. In North Texas the crop was ruined by rain.

Even the armed services have been unable to get all the onions they want. Reports are that the weather generally throughout the nation has not been suitable for onions.

Leach Is Unable To Pay Fine; Is Sent To Jail

Convicted of Reckless Driving and Not Having Driver's License

Eldridge Leach, Paw Paw, was committed to the county jail yesterday after Magistrate Frank A. Perdue found him guilty of charges of driving without a license and reckless driving.

Leach was arrested Wednesday evening by Trooper Ira G. Unger after the car he was driving crashed against the back of a pickup truck parked on Uhl highway several miles from this city.

Magistrate Perdue imposed a $10 fine for driving without a license and $5 for the reckless driving charge.

Both Vehicles Damaged

George Day, Paw Paw, driver of the truck, was fined $1 for parking on the road. Day and his son were near the truck at the time of the crash but were uninjured. Both vehicles, Trooper Unger said, were badly damaged.

Walter Schwer, 177 Watson street, Johnstown, Pa., paid a fine of $1 and costs when Magistrate Perdue found him guilty of exceeding thirty miles an hour on McMullen highway. Charges were preferred by Trooper Joseph White.

Thomas M. Beck, 125 Pennsylvania avenue, was fined $5 and costs for failing to stop at a stop sign at the Celanese plant last Saturday. Charges were preferred before Magistrate Perdue by Trooper M. G. Hart.

Forfeits Bond

Edwin August Richter, 626 Port street, Baltimore, forfeited $11.45 yesterday when he failed to appear before Magistrate Perdue on a charge of exceeding the fifty mile speed limit on Route 40.

Kenneth Price, Frostburg, posted $10 bond for a police court on a charge of careless driving. Price was arrested yesterday afternoon at 1:10 o'clock by Officer Frank A. Shober. Police said he was exceeding the speed limit on Greene street.

Rotenone Placed On Ration List

The latest commodity to hit the ration list is an insecticide, known as rotenone, according to a state board directive received by the Allegheny County United States Department of Agriculture War Board yesterday.

Coming largely from the Dutch East Indies, transportation difficulties have lowered the available stocks and because of the scarcity, restrictions on distribution have had to be imposed, the board announced.

Dealers have been notified that sales of rotenone are now limited to one pound per customer in dry form or one pint per customer in liquid form. To obtain any amount in excess of these figures, the applicant must file a certification with the county war board, 37 Washington street, stating the use of the rotenone and giving the trade name of the insecticide as a description.

According to Albert O'Neal, chairman of the county war board, in order for rotenone to be released on a war board certificate, the applicant must need the material for one or more of the following crops and uses:

Peas—protection against the pea weevil and pea aphid.

Beans—protection against Mexican bean beetles.

Cole crops—other than cabbage including broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, mustard, kale, turnips and collards—for protection against caterpillars and aphids.

Sweet corn—for protection against the European corn borer.

Cattle—for the specific control of the cattle grub (ox warble) or short-nosed cattle louse.

Dealers will be required to keep all certifications they accept in their files for a period of not less than two years. No deliveries are to be made where the dealer has reason to question the certification made.

SLAUGHTERERS MUST HAVE PERMITS

The Allegheny County Department of Agriculture War Board advises county custom slaughterers, persons who kill livestock for others, that they must hold permits to do any custom slaughtering and obtain statements of information from the owners of the livestock to be slaughtered.

The required statement, giving the owner's address, his slaughter permit number, the type and number of livestock killed and the total dressed and live weight, must be signed by the livestock owner and the custom slaughterer.

According to the new regulation, effective since July 1, no person will be entitled to custom slaughter unless he has (1) a permit he has obtained to perform operations as a local slaughterer, butcher or farm slaughterer, or (2) a special permit authorizing him to perform custom slaughtering operations.

Applications for these permits may be obtained at the office of the Allegheny county board, 37 Washington street.

MICKEY BEATS BOB'S DRUM—A Cumberland trap drummer who is now "wowing 'em" with his hot music as a member of the United States Air Corps jazz band at Fort Logan, Colo., had the pleasure of meeting Mickey Rooney, the movie star, in person, the other day, and Mickey lost no time in displaying his talents in the art of rhythm with the use of drum sticks. Shown at the left in the above picture is Corp. Robert S. Binnix, 22, Cumberland's 'hot' drummer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Binnix, of 312 Columbia street, while Rooney is in action behind the drum. The jive outfit, of which Corp. Binnix is a member, comprises eight men, and is known as the Loganaires. Young Binnix's dad, city hall barber and a former boxer, is also a drummer and so was the latter's father, the late Samuel Binnix. The Cumberland youth enlisted in the air corps in January, 1941.

Crawford Sues Railroad Company For $50,000

BALTIMORE, July 9 (AP)—Paul Hunter Crawford, 23, filed suit in federal court today claiming $50,000 damages from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for injuries he said he received at the Cumberland station of the line.

The suit contended that Crawford, while working as a brakeman at Cumberland on October 18, 1942, was injured by a freight car and the injury necessitated amputation of his leg.

Next week will be "Cumberland Week" at the Boy Scout camp—Camp Potomac—at Milleson's mill on the South Branch.

W. Donald Smith, activities chairman, yesterday announced that three Cumberland troops, comprising thirty-five boys, have made reservations for the second week of Potomac Council's camping season which lasts through the month of July.

35 Boys Listed

Troop No. 13, sponsored by the First Presbyterian church, A. M. Thorne, scout master, has registered thirteen boys; Troop No. 2, of the Baltimore and Ohio Y.M.C.A., H. Vernon Adams, temporary scout master, plans to send nine boys and Troop No. 15, of Fort Hill high school, Robert Myers, scout master, lists thirteen boys.

A bus has been chartered to pick up members of Troop 13 today at 11 a. m., at Riverside park. Members of Troops 2 and 15 will board the same bus at the Pennsylvania avenue school.

Three troops, namely, No. 69, Fort Ashby; No. 25, Barton, and No. 33, Piedmont, will break camp tomorrow after having spent the opening week at the mill. There are forty-four boys in this contingent.

Jackson Meets Officials

Kenneth E. Jackson, of Ashabula, Ohio, newly appointed scout executive of Potomac Council, came here yesterday to confer with officials of the Boy Scout organization. He said he will be unable to assume his new duties here until next month due to the fact that he is obligated to direct a scout camp in Ohio before his term expires in that territory.

7,040 Names Received For War Memorial Here

A total of 7,040 names of Allegheny county men and women in the armed services have been received for the war memorial which will be unveiled the latter part of August or early in September at the city hall, Mayor Thomas F. Conlon announced yesterday.

Those who have failed to report the names of men or women in the armed forces are urged to do so by calling telephone 807 or by writing to the Allegheny County War Memorial Committee, Liberty Trust building.

Supervisors Named

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller will supervise the Midland plant. Roscoe Messersmith will be the instructor at Belle Grove and Charles Miller has been named supervisor at Friendsville.

The program, approved by the state department of education, will cover approximately 170 centers in Maryland, and the centers are designed to assist and encourage the preservation of as much food as possible while teaching the proper methods of processing foods.

Equipment for the centers will include washing vats, tables for the preparation of food and filling of cans, sealers, and big high-pressure steam retorts, which can be used for the processing of meat and fish as well as fruits and vegetables.

One retort with a thirty-three can capacity will be installed at the Midland center while another with a 106-pound capacity will be assigned to Belle Grove. A small and large retort has been ordered for Friendsville plant.

5,000 Cans Ordered

House explained that canning by the steam pressure method is superior to the methods formerly used and that retorts can be operated with boilers and steam fittings of worked over gas or gasoline burners. Processing time for the various types of food ranges from five minutes to two hours.

Five thousand tin cans have been ordered to start the program and more will be needed if there is a good response from the general public to the program. Different foods require certain types of cans, namely, plain, for fruits, vegetables, meat and poultry; C enamel, for corn, lima beans, peas and legumes, and R or sanitary enamel, for red meat, fruits and vegetables to prevent bleaching of color. Cans may be purchased at the food preservation centers at about three cents each.

Bring Food to Centers

The regional co-ordinator said that all of the canning centers will be open to persons over sixteen years of age who desire to bring their food to the miniature plants to have it processed under the supervision of an instructor with commercial canning experience. Those who prefer to use glass instead of purchasing tin cans are requested to bring their jars, gums and lids with them.

House also pointed out that it (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Attendance Group Will Convene Here

Executive Committee of School Organization To Meet August 3 and 4

Twenty members of the executive committee of the National League to Promote School Attendance, will meet in Cumberland August 3 and 4, according to announcement made yesterday by Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of pupil personnel for the Allegheny County Board of Education, and league secretary.

Local sessions of the committee will be held in the board of education building, Washington street, and will take the place of the annual meeting which had been scheduled for Rochester, N. Y., but was called off because of transportation difficulties.

Matters to be discussed include plans to continue the monthly news letter, possible affiliation with the National Education Association and constitutional changes.

Officers will be elected and plans formulated for the 1943 meeting. Members of the executive committee include Gertrude Smith, of Frederick, Md.

THREE WILLS ARE FILED FOR PROBATE

Three wills were entered for probate and one filed for record in orphan's court yesterday, according to George E. Jordan, register of wills.

In her will dated September 28, 1938, Catherine Elizabeth Nave made cash bequests to her grandchildren, Paul N. Riley, Merrill D. Golden, Virginia Riley Keller, Helen Riley, and Ruth Riley Golden. Certain pieces of personal property were left to her daughter, Edith Lorenza Golden, and her son, Walter Merrill Riley. The remainder of her estate is to be divided equally between the son and daughter.

Mrs. Nave, who died July 4, names her daughter executrix of the will. Herbert Gulon Carpenter, who died June 29, named his widow Mary L. Carpenter, beneficiary of all his property, both real and personal, and executrix of his will, dated November 18, 1933.

Pauline Smith was appointed administratrix, c. t. a. e., of the will of her mother, Ora E. Souder, who died February 17 of this year. The will provides for cash bequests to Charles Souder and Maxine Souder, and that real estate on Elm street be sold and the proceeds be divided among all her living children. The will was dated November 4, 1908.

A copy of the last will and testament of James A. Young, late of Anne Arundel county, was filed for record.

Myrtle Brown Files Suit for Divorce

Myrtle Francine Brown, 13 Grand avenue, filed a bill of complaint in circuit court yesterday seeking an absolute divorce from James Howard Brown on a charge of desertion.

They were married in April 1929, and lived together until June 20 of this year. Two children were born of the marriage.

Mrs. Brown asks custody of the children, permanent and temporary alimony and that the defendant pay counsel fees and court costs.

A court order signed by Associate Judge William A. Huster, directed Brown to pay $40 counsel fees and $65 monthly alimony pending final settlement of the suit.

Paul M. Fletcher is attorney for the plaintiff.

Bond and Stamp Sales in Schools Exceed $60,000

Allegheny High Credited with 42 Per Cent of Total in Cumberland

Pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters collected by children have added up to the grand total of $60,452.26 worth of war stamps and bonds sold in Cumberland's public schools during the past school year, according to reports received from principals and teachers by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent.

Kopp said the results were due to the enthusiasm and energy displayed by pupils and teachers alike in stimulating sales in individual schools.

Allegheny high school accounted for forty-two per cent of stamps and bonds purchased in the thirteen city schools with sales approaching the $25,000 mark. Fort Hill high school was runner-up with $13,540.

It is estimated that the bond and stamp sale for the forty-five schools in Allegheny county will approach the $150,000 mark.

Here's how the local schools rate in sales:

School	Total
Allegheny High	$24,996.00
Fort Hill High	13,540.00
Penn Avenue	4,083.00
